Artist Interview: Donald Glaude

Oshare

If I had to name one artist who I feel has always stay true to his music and his fans, it would definitely be Donald Glaude. Last Saturday night we stop by Bassmnt Nightclub, one of San Diego's newest nightclubs, to catch up with Donald. We sat down with the pioneer of house music to see what he thought about the new club and what we can expect to see from him for the rest of 2013.

US: Was this your first time at Bassmnt and what did you think of it?

Donald Glaude: Yes, I have been at this club under other names but this is my first time in it as Bassmnt. It was amazing, I guess I was lucky to get some of Rebecca and Fionas crowd or whatever happen. They stay though and I had a really good time and they made me really happy. Thank you!

US: What can we expect from you in terms of new material for the rest of 2013?

Donald Glaude: Oh my god, all kinds of new stuff for 2013 plus a tour. Yeah a lot of things happening, next few tracks I got coming out are pretty sick. I did them with a few people, my boy Dillan we're DnD and then French Kiss and I am also doing one with the Savages who are about to blow up as well.

US: If you're not working on music or on tour playing shows, what do you do?

Donald Glaude: Well this weekend especially I was supposed to be in the studio and then I got a call to come here. Which is great because I live down the street, so I was like yeah I'll come down. I wanted to play this place and might have been my only opportunity for a minute so I took it. Hopefully I will be back here for my birthday during my tour between November and December. Yeah, I am in the studio working and learning and working with other people. I've been working with Dillan and The Savages from Arizona; I work with a guy named Paul who's Bassrock from Seattle my hometown. I've just been trying to learn and keep busy and contribute you know.

US: So what's the craziest thing you've seen at a gig?

Donald Glaude: I can't tell.. haha

US: So you recently played at the Paradiso Festival, how was that experience?

Donald Glaude: Those people are the people that brought me up, that whole Washington state, that's my hometown. I mean San Diego is my home as well but I mean I grew up there and they're the ones that brought me up and made me realize my potential. Basically that's how I started, they push me the hardest and expected a lot out of me. They don't want to hear commercial from me; they don't wanna hear commercial so I have to throw down in a different way.
