In a time where run-of-the-mill house producers are abundant, it can be difficult for artists to make their music stand out. Canadian production duo Botnek seem to have taken that as a challenge, as their open-minded, genre-blending style has landed them major collaborations with Zedd, Snails, and more. The pair have now released their second single of 2018, titled "Work That (Body)."

Starting with a groovy beat, Botnek pair the subtleties of a smooth tech-house track with the energy and sound design of a future house belter. Wavering synths and a driving bassline permeate the tune, making the track a crowd-pleaser for both small nightclubs and festival main stages.
