Andy Moor – Breaking The Silence: Volume 3

Label: Armada Music | Release Date: March 14, 2013

British electronic music producer Andrew Beardmore comprises some of my earliest personal memories of dance music, and throughout the years of constant aural evolution, Andy Moor has managed to remain true to his progressive and trance roots while maintaining adaptability and fluidity with the changing times. Strength of artistic vision such as Andy's deserves direct kudos, and his latest release of Volume 3 of his Breaking The Silence compilation series spotlights the recent shining stars of dance music from the experience of Andy Moor's ears and point of view. Compilations are neat tools like that, giving insight into a producers' personal aural spectrum of choice.

As a prior Grammy-award nominee with countless remixes (Armin van Buuren, Tiesto, Paul Oakenfold, even Britney Spears) and original productions ("World To Turn," "Faces," "In Your Arms," etc.) under his belt on top of manning the helm as label head at Ava Recordings and hosting over 100 episodes of his PODCast Moor Music, Andy shows he still has a bit of time left to put together a compilation reflecting his own vision of the scene today.

The dual-CD mix encompasses a variety of some of the best tracks in the melodic trance/progressive arena which emulsifies into a seamless mixture of high-flying melodies and harder more driving elements, showing the versatility that trance productions allow for in current times. The first CD takes you on a steady climb into the atmosphere; with airy vibes, sweeping harmonic sections and littered with a sense of mystery via the likes of LTN's edit of "Love Again" by Andy Moor and Betsie Larkin, Juventa's remix of Kerry Leva's "Proud" and tracks by Anry, DNS Project, Norin & Rad and Yuri Kane among many more.

The 2nd CD brings us back down to earth a bit with a harder more driving edge, because life is all about that balance. This portion features one of Andy's new productions "Fade To Light" as well as Protoculture's remix of Solarstone's "Solarcoaster" and other cuts from producers like Tenishia, Eximinds, Alex M.O.R.P.H., Somna and Boom Jinx.

Electronic music junkie since the turn of the millennium (and prior). Yeah, I rocked out to Robin S, Real McCoy & to Tiesto when he was still doing "In Search Of Sunrise". I have a penchant for the melodic side of EDM, so sue me. Reach out and "touch me" @mattedmt
