In this article:

Geoff Taylor, longtime CEO of the British record-label trade body BPI, who also oversees the BRIT Awards and the Mercury Prize, will "move on in 2023 to a more directly commercial role," according to the announcement.

Taylor said, "It has been a great privilege to lead the BPI during such a formational period for British music. With a new Chair appointed and our 50th anniversary next year, it feels like BPI is opening a new chapter.
