The influential Finnish electronic music producer has been a household name since the late 90s. Responsible for one of the most iconic anthems in dance music history, "Sandstorm," he has decades of experience under his belt.

Although he's been quiet on the new music front for a few years, Darude has kicked open the doors of the saloon with "Outlaws," a collaboration with House Body and Oskr. Despite its sinister title, the new song brings forth a bouncy, lighthearted energy with its lively production and infectious vocals, delivering a track that will resonate with Darude's longtime fans.
